Frequently Asked Questions Regarding Firm Permits

Question: If I want to do tax returns part-time, do I need to register myself as a firm? If so, will I be subject to a peer review?

Answer: If you plan to do any side work, including tax returns, and hold yourself out as a CPA, you must register as a firm. You will not be subject to a peer review as long as you do not perform any write-up work including financial statements, compilations, reviews, or audits.

Question: What firms are eligible to obtain a firm permit?

Answer: The majority of the financial ownership and voting rights of a firm must hold active and valid CPA certificates to be eligible for a firm permit. The firm must have a principle place of business in Indiana. A firm of which only a minority of owners or no owners hold CPA certificates is NOT eligible to obtain a firm permit.

Question: If I perform mostly write up work, is my firm subject to a peer review?

Answer: Yes, the issuance of a financial statement requires a minimum of a compilation report unless it is a SSARS 8 engagement; therefore your firm is due a peer review. If you render only SSARS 8 engagements you are not subject to a peer review.

Question: My firm operates at more than one location. Is a firm permit required for each location?

Answer: No, only one permit per firm is required regardless of number of locations.

Question: When is Peer Review required?

Answer: All Indiana firms that perform ANY attest functions (audits, reviews, compilations or agreed upon procedures) must have a peer review completed once every three years regardless of the frequency these services are completed. Contact the Indiana CPA Society (<http://incpas.org/advocacy-compliance/compliance/peer-review>) for more information about enrolling in peer review. If you have any other questions about peer review, contact the Board compliance department at 317-234-3025.

Question: What is peer review?

Answer: According to the IC § 25-2.1-1-12, peer review is a study or review of at least one aspect of the work of an individual or firm practicing accountancy that attests or issues compilation reports.

These reviews are not performed by the Board of Accountancy. The Board of Accountancy appoints an administering entity who then matches reviewing firms with firms needing quality review. Currently, the administering entity is the Indiana CPA Society.

Question: What is the difference between a system review and an engagement review?

Answer: A system review is conducted on-site at the firm being reviewed while engagement reviews are conducted off-site.

Question: What firms are required to participate in peer review?

Answer: Any firm that performs attest services must complete a peer review once during the license cycle. Please see the Board's rules for certain initial licensure exceptions.

If a firm fails to have the peer review completed as required, the license may be subject to disciplinary action including renewal denial or revocation.
